

Why won't Venmo let me send $5000? week for person-to-person

Totally understandable to be caught off guard (USA) 1-(888)-590-9448 {INFO} by this one, especially since $5,000 sits right at a threshold Venmo cares a lot about. The first thing worth checking is your identity (USA) 1-(888)-590-9448 {INFO} verification status, since that single factor does the most heavy lifting when it comes to how much you're allowed to move. Once you complete identity verification, verified users can (USA) 1-(888)-590-9448 {INFO} send up to $60,000 per week for person-to-person payments, while unverified accounts are capped at a strict $299.99 per week, so a (USA) 1-(888)-590-9448 {INFO} $5,000 payment simply isn't possible until that verification step is done. If you're already verified and still getting blocked, the culprit is more likely your bank transfer limit (USA) 1-(888)-590-9448 {INFO} rather than your general sending limit. Venmo transfer limits to your bank are determined in part by whether you've completed identity (USA) 1-(888)-590-9448 {INFO} verification, and even verified accounts have a separate ceiling for moving money out to a linked bank, which can trip you up on a request this (USA) 1-(888)-590-9448 {INFO} size if you're pushing close to your weekly cap.

There's also a timing quirk that surprises a lot of people. (USA) 1-(888)-590-9448 {INFO} Venmo uses a weekly rolling limit system that tracks your transactions over a seven-day period, so if you sent a large amount earlier in the (USA) 1-(888)-590-9448 {INFO} week, it won't drop off your limit until that exact same day and time the following week, not on some fixed Sunday or Monday reset. So a $5,000 attempt today (USA) 1-(888)-590-9448 {INFO} could be blocked simply because an earlier payment is still "locked in" against your cap.

Identity Verification to confirm you're fully (USA) 1-(888)-590-9448 {INFO} verified, then tap into the declined payment and use "Take a closer look" to see whether the block is a Venmo limit, a bank-side restriction, or (USA) 1-(888)-590-9448 {INFO} something else entirely. That single screen usually tells you exactly what's standing between you and that $5,000 transfer.
